Leadership Development for Women in Utah Higher Education

This is the first event sponsored by the newly created Utah Women in Higher Education Network. This highly participative workshop is designed for women in higher education settings within Utah. The purpose of this workshop is to:

- Increase attendee’s self-knowledge through understanding the unique strengths of self and others.
- Further develop leadership abilities, and encourage the use of those abilities.
- Discuss challenges and opportunities for women in higher education.
- Share findings of how top women in higher education have developed leadership.
- Link women to others in Utah with similar goals.
- Offer a networking opportunity for women to provide support and peer-mentoring across institutions.

Who Should Attend?
Female faculty, staff, and administrators who are interested in developing additional leadership knowledge, skills, and abilities for the purpose of preparing to move into positions of greater influence within higher education.

Facilitator
Susan R. Madsen, Orin R. Woodbury Professor of Leadership and Ethics at the Woodbury School of Business at Utah Valley University, will facilitate this workshop. She has published two leadership books and a host of articles on her research and work as well as given numerous keynotes and conducted leadership workshops around the U.S. and in various countries.

May 9, 2011
12:30 PM-4:00 PM
Utah Valley University
Student Center (SC) 213c
Lunch included

Registration
Pre-registration is required to attend this event. Register by emailing Nicolle Johnson at NJohnson@uvu.edu and provide full contact information. There is no cost for this event, but it is limited to 50 participants. You will be mailed a book and be asked to complete a detailed personal strengths assessment at least one week prior to the workshop.